Our story

HOLLAND HALL EST. 1654

Steeped in history, we have stood the test of time. Our remarkable 17th-century Grade II listed manor, originally known as Holland House was built in 1654 and much of its original grandeur is preserved to this day. The Baroque architectural splendor that once graced its halls is still evident with stunning features such as the original pedimented studded door and its beautifully framed architrave, alongside the timeless sash windows. Located at the front entrance of the original hall, the door remains a striking centerpiece, visible from within the foyer in all its historic glory.

Throughout its rich history, the hall has revealed hidden secrets, including several concealed priest-holes. One such feature, discovered within the wall, now forms part of a guest room in the old building. Another priest hole, ingeniously concealed under the fireplace in the main entrance hall, stands as a testament to the building's storied past.

After an extensive and sympathetic restoration, we now offer the perfect blend of heritage and modern luxury. While retaining its original period charm, the property has been thoughtfully re-developed to include all the contemporary amenities needed to create the ideal hotel venue for your special day.

WHEN HOLLAND HALL WAS BUILT, THERE WERE ONLY 25 COUNTRIES DISCOVERED IN THE WORLD. NOW THERE ARE 195...AND WE'RE STILL STANDING.
